About the day

We are delighted to announce our first accredited myeloma nurse education event in partnership with the Royal College of Nursing (RCN) which will be held on Friday 22 November 2013 in London.

The programme will consist of myeloma-specific presentations in the morning led by experts in the field, followed by RCN presentations focusing on broader nursing policy and practice issues facing today's nursing profession. The day will be accredited by the Royal College of Nursing.

The day will include:

- An RCN accredited certificate of attendance which can be used to support your Continuing Professional Development (CPD)
- A comprehensive delegate pack, containing myeloma and RCN resource materials
- Presentations from experts in myeloma and professional nursing practice
- Networking opportunities with myeloma and nursing experts and your peers
- Q&A and interactive sessions
- Opportunity to tour the newly refurbished state of the art RCN library and heritage centre facilities

What you/your nurses will gain from the day:

- Gain a better understanding of the patient experience and the importance of maximising the therapeutic alliance between the patient, doctor and nurse
- Identify areas for development in your role in the treatment, care and management of myeloma patients
- Translate myeloma knowledge and skills to clinical practice
- Better understand how to meet patient expectations
- Be able to identify patient management considerations for individual patients including social factors and patient choices
- Have greater confidence to manage myeloma patients at different disease stages
